

JULY / 2017

Fiocruz launches HIV prevention project in Latin America

HIV Pre-Exposure Prophylaxis (ImPrEP) project in Brazil, Mexico and Peru launched. Coordinated by the National Institute of Infectology Evandro Chagas (INI/Fiocruz), the project aims to contribute to the implementation of Pre-Exposure Prophylaxis (PrEP) as a strategy for HIV prevention in the three countries, focusing on population groups most exposed to the virus.

Fiocruz and China discuss scientific cooperation agreement

Chinese delegation of health and genomics experts visited the Fiocruz campus in Rio de Janeiro in the last week of June to discuss future scientific partnerships between Brazil and the Asian country. Partnership to be launched soon, says Fiocruz representative. Genomics and global health emergencies are among the priorities.

Discontinuities characterize health history in Latin America, says historian

Interview with awarded Peruvian historian Marcos Cueto on the main characteristics of health history in Latin America. Discontinuities, tendencies to think in the short term, a tense relation between cultures, and efforts to create an egalitarian health define the continent, says him.

Study on zika discloses serious ocular lesions in infants

New study finds that ocular abnormalities can be the only initial finding of infants whose mothers were infected during pregnancy.

Research assesses potential for urbanization of yellow fever

Study in partnership with the Pasteur Institute in France points to the potential of re-emergence of the urban transmission of yellow fever in Brazil, reinforcing the importance of preventive measures such as vaccination and vector control.

International project aims at building healthier cities in Latin America

Can cities in Latin America be healthier? Two Fiocruz researchers will dedicate the next five years to answering this question.

Facilities have international accreditation revalidated

After a series of benchmarks on infrastructure, service and team performance, the Joint Commission International (JCI) has evaluated that two facilities of Fiocruz remain in line with international standards of excellence.

Links relacionados:

▶ Fiocruz Global Health Center

Fiocruz International News

Monthly report of the Fiocruz Center for International Relations in Health, edited by the Fiocruz Coordination of Social Communication

Masthead | cancel subscription

CRIS - Center for International Relations in Health
▶ portal.fiocruz.br/en/cris

Ministério da Saúde